“ Delores' father and my late husband's father were brothers. However, they were separated at a very young age along with another brother. A few years ago my husband and I decided to research what happened to the family. The youngest brother, John, lived in our area so it was easy to find him. However, it took quite a bit of searching to find information on Delores' father. It was then that we met Delores and made the trip to their home to meet her and another one of her brothers and a nephew and his wife. Even though my husband has passed away, Delores has been a part of my family and I have enjoyed the time talking with her on the phone many times. She has been very special to me and I will greatly miss her. My sympathy to her husband and her family.
