“ Liz and I worked together for many years at Raven Elementary School. She was such a joy and I always considered her my equal in the classroom. Liz was always smiling and laughing even when times were sad for her. She was the best and I will miss her. Thank goodness I have lots of special memories of her.

“ Oh, my...we were so, saddened to hear of the death of a very dear, sweet friend--Liz Jackson! She was such a dear and close friend of our mother, Julia Roydon Bez, and so she also became part of "our" family. To think that now, both of these wonderful, loving ladies are in Heaven with the Father--what a blessing for them to be together once again--not in an apartment dwelling setting, but in Heaven and their 'eternal' setting. Amen!

Liz was such a dear when my brother, Fred Bez, and I would visit with our mother through the years when mother lived in her apartment. Liz always welcomed us with open arms and a sweet, big, genuine smile with a gleam in her pretty dark eyes. You could tell she was a Christian who loved her Lord--it exuded from her being! As mentioned above, Liz was like visiting with an old friend after being gone for some time; just sitting and catching up as if it had only been a few weeks away--when in all actuality, it had been an entire year! I will miss our many diverse conversations, but more specifically, about our Lord. One day I hope to continue our conversations with her once again--but this time, they will be much longer conversations, indeed!

To the family of Liz Jackson (and particularly to Patsy Hankins)--we will feel your loss, too, for a very long time; however, we both feel so very blessed that we got to know Liz so well because of her kindred friendship with mother as a very close friend. Mother lived "upstairs" and Liz lived "downstairs" and the two of them had their own special "signals" to make sure the other was OK and doing fine. So cute--so sweet--so kind. I was always so reassuring to know our mother had a faithful friend who lived downstairs that made sure she was doing well every day. That's a true friend, indeed.

This is long, but I could not let this opportunity slip by without reassuring you that Liz was a truly sweet, happy, remarkable woman showing the love of Jesus with her sweet smile and bright, shiny eyes of genuine love with her big "Welcome!" each time we would visit Richlands to see mother once again--and to renew our friendship and catch up with our conversations with Liz. Liz was there to encourage Fred and I during mother's last, difficult year of life when she became quite ill and later went to be with the Lord--her Lord--our Lord. Liz was right there encouraging us and loving us through that very, very difficult period with our love and eventual loss of our precious mother. We will both forever be grateful for sweet, precious Liz. God Bless You and be encouraged of where she is. She is having a wonderful time singing praises (right alongside our precious mother, Julia!) to their Heavenly Father. It's a party! Don't fret! :)

Thinking of you all so much and praying for comfort in these days ahead.

With Sincere Sympathy & love,

Jami (Bez) Lowstuter

“ I went to Church with Ms. Liz and Helped Linda Johnson-Cordill with the W.I.N. (Widows in need) I truly loved and adored Ms. Liz. She was just a sweet and special lady. SO close to the Lord. She will be truly missed but there is no doubt where she is now. May The Lord comfort your hearts and give you the peace that only God can give.
