“ When I sat down to think of one momery I would like to share; so many come to mind, and the truth is I can't pick.. I have known and loved this whole family for more yrs than I can remember. I love this lady as if she were my own grandma; I also know wo doubt that she love me as a grandchild.. If I had to narrow it down just a lil, an had to choose.. I think it would be, the fun simple days I would stop by on my way home from work about every day, to see what kinda day they all had.. She would always ask if I had eaten yet, and how my day went for that "hateful ol Dr I work for".. Basically what I'm trying to say is I am gonna miss this wise lady, and all the advice she gave me over the many many yrs; I felt just as much her family as I did my own..

I did stop by there the last time I seen her sitting in her recliner, guessing right around the time she had went into the hospital, and before I went inside Lisa and Brandi stop me and said "Tina, she doesn't remember hardly anyone, so just prepare yourself" I took a breathe and walked in; Lisa said "mommy do you know who this is?" She looked up at me and said " You better come give me a hug Tina, and where is Tommy at? " She hadn't remembered that Tommy and I had divorced; but she knew exactly who I was.. I will forever cherish that day, not knowing that would be the last time I would see her alive. My heart goes out to this family for the lose of this amazing, beautiful soul. I'm always here for each and everyone of you. I will carry a part of her and all the stories she has told me over the yrs.. A wise woman she really was..

Love you forever and always

Fly high my Angel! 🙏
