“ Kathy, a part of Freddie will always live in your heart, your memories of him will be with you all the days of your life, and you will cherish everyone of them. They will give you strength when you are weak and happiness when you are down. You'll only have to remember his smile and your hope will be renewed. You'll only have to think about the way his eyes touched something deep inside of you and you'll remember that LOVE bonds one soul to another eternally. The LOVE you carried for each other is in your heart. I'm so sorry Kathy and I love you very much. Thinking of you in my prayers. Always your aunt and friend, Terry

“ First I would like to think everyone that was there for me and my mother and sisters while we were in Roanoke at my fathers side and came with their sympathy after he passed. Words could not express how much that meant to each and everyone of us. My father was a man of mystery, you never knew what he was up to until it was too late. He was loved by many people and most of them would get so mad at him just for being him. He didnt care whos fellings he hurt if he had something to said it got said without thought. And because of him being who is was people would get so mad often taking it out on my by saying to me "GOD YOUR JUST LIKE YOUR DADDY" My mom would often say that I should have been a boy. My father along with my sisters and I would make my mother so mad just being us talking about things that a father and daughter just shouldn't talk about. But that just shows how close we all were. Daddy wasnt just our daddy he was our bestfriend. There was nothing we could not talk about. And if you know the things we would talk about as sick as it may sound "I MISS THAT THE MOST ABOUT LOOSING MY FATHER AND MY FRIEND" He tried to be a friend and father figure to many of Jessica's, Maria's and my friends. I often found my father still playing a role in many of our friends lives long after we were not friends ourselves. He often took our friends in when their family's would not regardless if mom liked the idea or not. This is why my father had such an impact on so many peoples lives. He tried so hard to be so many things to so many people. My father loved many things in life. His wife Kathy, my sisters Jessica and Maria, Brittany whom my mother always called "his arms and legs" my brother Shawn and myself. He also loved his grandchildren, whom had an extra special place in his heart Trey, Kayle, Tylor, Chandler, Deondrea, Cameron, Tiffany and Marcus. My father was NEVER afraid of death he was a strong man and fought too hard for his life at times. He didnt fight in fear of death he faught in fears of leaving us behind with a broken heart. I often think he faught so hard to stay with my mother he loved her from the first time he meet her. He he still loves her now. Losing you daddy is like losing a part of our souls. Learning to live without you is perhaps the most difficult task that each of your girls can ever endure. I wish all of us peace, courage, and the presence of mind during this most difficult time to live on not without you but with you in our hearts where you have always been. Life is a dream walking and death for you daddy is going home without all of your girls and the love of your life by your side but most importantly without the pain and suffering.

*I GUESS YOU ARE RIGHT DADDY I DO TALK TOO MUCH
And I will cherish those last words that you said to me before you passed as much as I will all of the other memories that I have. You truly were in your words " A TOUGH NUT TO CRACK"*

“ 02/16/2005, I am extremely heart broken to learn of the death of Freddie. I too lost my father not long away I can imagine how you and your sisters and mother must fell right now. My heart is breaking for all of you. Freddie is in the arms of the lord and we all can only hope and pray for the best for his loved ones left behind. Kathy, I wish you the best in your journey of a life without such a wonderfull man, and time will attempt to heal that burning pain that you must fell right now. Be strong for the other people that you love so dearly, your children and grandchildren all need you to do just that. I know its hard I asked my mother to do the same. Jessica and Maria life must go one for you both. Teach your children what your father has taught you through out the years, do so by keeping the memory of your father alive through out there growth. As for you "Tee" my heart bleeds for you at this moment. I wish that it didn't take months to get mail here. I wish I could have done this sooner for all of you. I know that your father had been very sick for many years that I am aware of first hand so you know that pain is gone for him, It left broken hearts behind but you must be strong as well, for your mother, sisters, and brother (didnt know you had one, I thought i knew it all) and most importantly your twins, (they must be five or six now) Thinks do get better in time I promise. It is still a struggle for me but it does get better. The tears will fade but your faith in Jesus should over come all of everyones fears. You just have to believe.

With all of my love and support of you all
