“ I am so sad that I lost the best father-in-law in the world. You were the sweetest and dearest person I have known and I am honored that you let me be a part of your family and that you loved me as much as I loved you. I will miss your smile and sweet sense of humor. I know you are in heaven and God needed you more than I did but I want to say I will always love and admire you. Thanks for giving me your son, the best husband in the world. No one can ever take your place in my heart. The best gift you gave me and Ronnie was the prayer you prayed for us while you were sick. You were a man of great respect and you never complained about being sick because you knew that God was taking care of everything for you. I love you and hope to see you again someday in heaven.

“ I know you do not know me, but I felt compelled to express my sympathy to your family. Trying to find something positive about death is not easy for a family who is grieving, like you are. I will not tell you I understand, because I can't begin to imagine the pain you are feeling right now. So, finding the right words to say is difficult. That is why I wanted to take the time and allow God's words to comfort you.

The Bible assures us at (Psalms 34:18) that God is "near to those that are broken at heart; and those who are crushed in spirit he saves." Isn't that a beautiful thought? Yes, He is near to you right now, during this low time in your life. No doubt, you have communicated to God, who is called the "Hearer of prayer" at (Psalms 65:2). Not only does He want us to throw our burdens upon Him, but he also has the power to sustain us. (Psalms 55:22) Jehovah God can and will equip you with "power beyond what is normal" to cope with your loss from one day to the next. (2 Corinthians 4:7)

There is a brochure entitled - When Someone You Love Dies, and it has proven beneficial to many who have lost loved ones in death. If you would like a free copy, email me or leave a message at the Kingdom Hall of Jehovah's Witnesses (276-988-2330). Again, I am so sorry for your loss.
