“ James and I knew each other for about 15 years, a lot of you may not know that James was a nurse, before he started his paving company, he loved the old country music songs, crying in your beer kind. He said he remembers this from his childhood that his dad played. He used to be rather wild, and as friends, he was always a gentleman to me. He built his place in reedy creek and had become a devout Christian, the last I spoke with him. He was always searching for the next adventure. The best to his family and hopefully James passed in peace. His friend and with good memories. Kimberly Eaton
