“ Ms. Jackson was such a special lady. She was always such a influence in my life and always so encouraging to me. I loved her and appreciated her so very much. I attended Raven Assembly for years and she and I shared many of a Sunday afternoon visiting and share time together. Heaven is a richer place today for the life that she lived and the treasures that she laid up in heaven through her life.

May God bless you all in the time of sorrow and the time of rejoicing of a life well lived.

“ It saddens me to hear of the passing of Ms. Jackson, but I know she is in a far better place. I had her for a teacher at Cove school in the 5th, 6th and 7th grade. She was a great influence on my life and through the years I have often thought of her. She instilled a desire in me to succeed and thanks to her I did a 24 year stint in the Army and retired as an officer and presently I manage the security for Aflac, a Fortune 500 company. Thank you Ms. Jackson for being a part of my life.

“ Recently, I was just telling my grandchildren how Mrs. Jackson read to us while we rested our eyes. It took a long time to read "Call of the Wild". We surprised her with "tootsie roll" parties a few times. Once, we built an igloo. She worked very hard preparing us for the 4H talent shows. Mostly importantly of all, she taught us good morals and shared her faith in God. I can still see that big smile and I know she is smiling in heaven now. May God Bless your family in this time of grief.

“ As I weekly check the obits in the Richlands area, I was saddened to see that Mrs. Jackson had died. My sympathy is extended to her sisters and other members of the family. I always considered Mrs. Jackson a very special lady. I mostly knew her from the fact she boarded a number of years at my grandparent's place (Will and Maggie Witt) in the Paint Lick area when she was teaching at the Cove School. I attended the Cove School one year (2nd grade) and also had that relationship with her. As a youngster at my grandparents, she always treated me with great respect, which is what I think she did for all students she was associated with. In 1999, I looked her up in Richlands when I was passing through on a trip. I probably had not seen her for 25-30 years. When she answered the door, I said "you probably don't know who I am" - her response was "oh yes, I do." She talked about my parents, my grandparents, her time teaching in the Cove, asked about my sisters and brother, etc. It was a delightful visit. When I left, I was rather saddened because I thought it would probably be the last time I would see her, which turned out to be the case. She was a wonderful link to part of my own history. The world is a better place because of wonderful people such as her. I shall always treasure the memories I have of her at my grandparents and at the Cove School. God has welcomed home an angel.
