“ One of my favorite memories of her were the countless times playing cards or dice while listening to bluegrass music. She never forgot where she came from, no matter where she was and she always took pride in being an Appalachian woman.

Another one is the times she would teach me how to cook a delicious meal. She loved to host and treat her loved ones with a home cooked meal and I am so thankful to have learned her recipes and hospitality over the years.

The endless laughs, back scratches, stories, and hugs are all things I will never forget and will always cherish from her.

“ Mildred Schydzik, my grandmother, was the most caring person. She would open her arms to anyone that needed a hug, listen to anyone that needed an ear, and give to anyone that needed. The world will truly never be the same without her silliness, bluntness, loyalty, and work ethic.

“ One of my most favorite memories was when she got to meet my son. She was diagnosed with cancer while I was pregnant and I was so worried he would never get to meet her. She got to meet both of my children and show them her genuine and unconditional love. ❤️
