“ Mom worked hard to raise the four of us. Roger, you and our God were the rocks that she leaned upon. I can still remember the taste of the soup beans that you cooked on the coal cook stove as a teenager, so supper would be ready when she got home from work. You walked me down the aisle at my last wedding and you were one of the first people that I showed my published dissertation to when I received my Ph.D. We lost Larry and now we have lost you. Me and Mike are left here as the two remaining of Mommy's children. Please know and understand that wherever we are at, you are forever part of our hearts, our thoughts, our family, and our memories. You will be missed.
Love,
Your little sister.
